

MORE THAN 96% OF RELEASED SEX OFFENDERS NEVER REOFFEND

HOUSE BILL 98-1156 SAYS:

- On completion of the minimum period of incarceration specified in a sex offender's indeterminate sentence, less any earned time, they shall have a Parole Board hearing.
- The inmate may be released on parole if the Parole Board determines that the sex offender has successfully progressed in treatment and would not pose an undue threat to the community if released under appropriate treatment and monitoring requirements.
- The department (SOTMP) shall make recommendations to the Parole Board concerning whether the sex offender should be released on parole and the level of treatment and monitoring imposed.
- HOWEVER, under the present interpretation of this bill, by the Parole Board, nearly all of those with a sex offense are denied parole and sent back for additional years of incarceration at the tax payers' expense.
